

two years. Producers with plants in the Northwest cannot expand output because these plants are

The Amendment Concerning Consent Order has been placed on the public record for thirty days. Comments received during this period will be made a part of the public record. After thirty (30) days, the Commission will analyze the comments received and will decide whether it should withdraw from the proposed order and its analysis is to invite public comment on the proposed order, including the problems outlined in the complaint will be resolved. By accepting the proposed order subject to final approval, the Commission is not making any promises or commitments. The purpose of this analysis is to invite public comment on the proposed order, including the problems outlined in the complaint will be resolved. By accepting the proposed order subject to final approval, the Commission is not making any promises or commitments. The purpose of this analysis is to invite public comment on the proposed order, including the problems outlined in the complaint will be resolved. By accepting the proposed order subject to final approval, the Commission is not making any promises or commitments.