The Commission shall have sole discretion in choosing an independent administrator to administer the Redress Program. The FTC, in consultation with HUD and the State of Illinois, shall determine which consumers are eligible for redress as well as the amounts to be paid. Defendants shall have no right to challenge any aspect of Plaintiffs' distribution of consumer redress. In the event that direct redress to consumers is wholly or partially impracticable or funds remain after redress is completed, the Commission may apply any remaining funds for such other equitable relief (including consumer information remedies) as it determines to be reasonably related to the Defendants' practices alleged in the complaint. Any funds not used for such equitable relief shall be deposited into the United States Treasury. Defendants shall have no right to challenge the Commission's choice of remedies under this Part.

VII.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this Order, Defendants agree that if they fail to meet the payment obligations set forth in this Order, Defendants shall pay the costs and attorneys' fees incurred by the Commission and its agents in any attempts to collect amounts due pursuant to this Order. XI.

For each letter of credit, both the financial institution that issues the letter of credit and the form of the letter of credit must be acceptable to the FTC, which acceptance will not be unreasonably withheld. The letter of credit shall be drawn upon only in the event that Mercantile fails to meet its obligations to offer refinance loans or cash payments under the Refinancing Program, and shall be used to provide redress up to three percent (3%) of the existing note to any Specified Borrower who had not already refinanced his/her loan through the Refinancing Program (or who had not previously received the three percent (3%) cash payment referenced in Part XII(D), above). Should the value of the letter of credit then outstanding exceed the total payments made to borrowers under this Part, then the remaining balance minus any administrative expenses incurred by the FTC or its designated agent in connection with the distribution of the cash payments shall be paid to Mercantile. So long as the Defendants have complied with the provisions of this Part, Defendants Silveous and Noble are not personally liable for any obligation under the Refinancing Program.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Dear [Indiana/Ohio Consumer],

Our records show that you took out a home mortgage loan from Mercantile Mortgage Company between 1998 and 2001. You may be eligible to refinance your loan now at no- or low-cost. This benefit is being offered under a settlement between the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) and Mercantile concerning the company's lending practices.

The name Mercantile may not mean anything to you. This is because Mercantile sold your loan to another company – the company you now make payments to. Regardless of who now owns your loan, you may still be able to participate in the refinancing program.

According to our records, you obtained a 15-year balloon loan. A balloon loan means that you will owe a large payment at the end of the loan term. If you can't make the payment at that time, you might need another loan, which could mean new closing costs, points and fees. As part of its settlement, Mercantile has agreed to offer certain borrowers with balloon loans the opportunity to refinance into new 30-year loans with no balloon payment, at the lowest available interest rate for which you qualify, and with little or no closing costs. If you believed or were told you did not have a balloon loan, the FTC strongly recommends that you return the attached Eligibility Form to learn more about the program.

To participate in the refinancing program, you must complete the attached form and return it to [the Settlement Administrator]. The form will be used to determine your eligibility for the refinancing program. Returning the form does not obligate you to refinance your loan. We will contact you in the next several weeks to let you know if you are eligible for the program and to provide further information on your refinancing options.

We have enclosed a prepaid, addressed envelope. Your eligibility form must be postmarked by _____, 2002. We suggest you keep a copy of the completed form for your records.

Please call us toll-free at [phone number] if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

[Redress Administrator]

APPENDIX E

SUMMARY OF THE MERCANTILE-FTC CONSENT ORDER

Mercantile Mortgage Company (“Mercantile”) has entered into a settlement agreement (“Consent Order”) with the Federal Trade Commission (“FTC”), the State of Illinois (“Illinois”), and the Department of Housing and Urban Development (“HUD”). The Consent Order resolves charges that Mercantile engaged in deceptive practices and other violations of law in the marketing of mortgage loans. More specifically, the FTC and Illinois have alleged that Mercantile misrepresented certain terms and costs of mortgage loans, and that Mercantile has violated various credit statutes. HUD has alleged that Mercantile violated the Real Estate and Settlement Procedures Act. We are providing this summary to alert you to certain obligations you may have as a Mercantile employee under the Consent Order.

Mercantile has agreed to the Consent Order to settle these charges. The Consent Order is for settlement purposes only and is not an admission of violations of law by Mercantile. Under the Consent Order, Mercantile has agreed not to make misrepresentations in the offering or extending of credit to consumers. In addition, Mercantile has agreed not to violate the credit statutes. Mercantile will be providing a $250,000 fund to distribute to former borrowers. Mercantile also will offer certain borrowers with balloon loans (who state that they did not know that their loan had a balloon payment) the opportunity to refinance into new loans with no balloon payment, in which Mercantile will pay for all or most of the closing costs. In addition, Mercantile will establish a program to monitor oral and written presentations and communications made by loan officers to potential borrowers.

Specifically, the Order prohibits you, as a Mercantile employee, from engaging in certain practices, including misrepresenting:

1. The payment schedule of the loan;
 2. The monthly payment amount, interest rate, annual percentage rate, finance charge, loan amount, loan term or any other term of repayment;
 3. The existence, absence, or terms of any prepayment penalty on the loan, or the cost involved in refinancing the loan;
 4. The amount of cash to be disbursed to the borrower out of the loan proceeds, or to be disbursed on behalf of the borrower to any third party, including any creditors or any home improvement companies;
 5. That the monthly payment amount includes the payment into an escrow account for property taxes and insurance; or
 6. The existence, non-existence, due-date, or the amount of any balloon payment.
- Specifically, you should not:

- < represent that the loan's payment schedule consists only of a specified monthly payment schedule, without disclosing the balloon payment;
- < represent that the loan principal would be fully paid off at the end of the loan term, without disclosing the balloon payment; or
- < explicitly represent that the loan does not contain a balloon payment when in fact it does.

The Order also requires Mercantile to provide a written disclosure statement when offering a balloon loan. The disclosure states the amount and due-date of the balloon payment and must be given to borrowers three (3) business days before loan closing. A copy of the affirmative disclosure statement is attached.

We are advising all employees to comply with the terms of the Consent Order in marketing Mercantile loans. If Mercantile receives information that you have violated the Consent Order, you may be subject to investigation and disciplinary action.

You may review a full copy of the Order on the FTC's Web site, at [URL]. If you have any questions, you can contact the management at [phone number].
