INTRODUCTION

Beginning in late 1999, Respondent ENH Medical Group, Inc. ("ENH Medical Group") negotiated fee schedules with health insurance companies on behalf of hundreds of doctors.

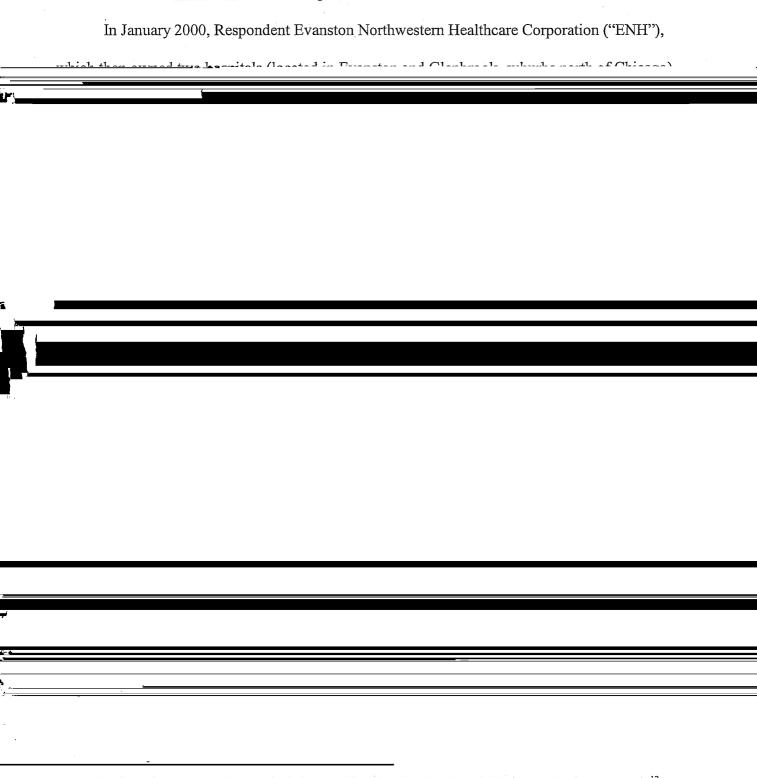

These doctors included employees of Respondent's parent entity, as well as "independent" against each other and against doctors employed by hospital corporations, among other things, for patients and prices on fee-for-service contracts.

The Price-Fixing Agreement

Price competition ended and the price fixing began in late 1999 when, just two months before the hospitals merged, the Independent Doctors from Highland Park joined forces with the doctors already in ENH Medical Group.<sup>26</sup> By an "integration" agreement dated November 1,

Medical Group and Faculty Practice Associates, agreed that the Independent Doctors would for business with insurance companies.<sup>28</sup>

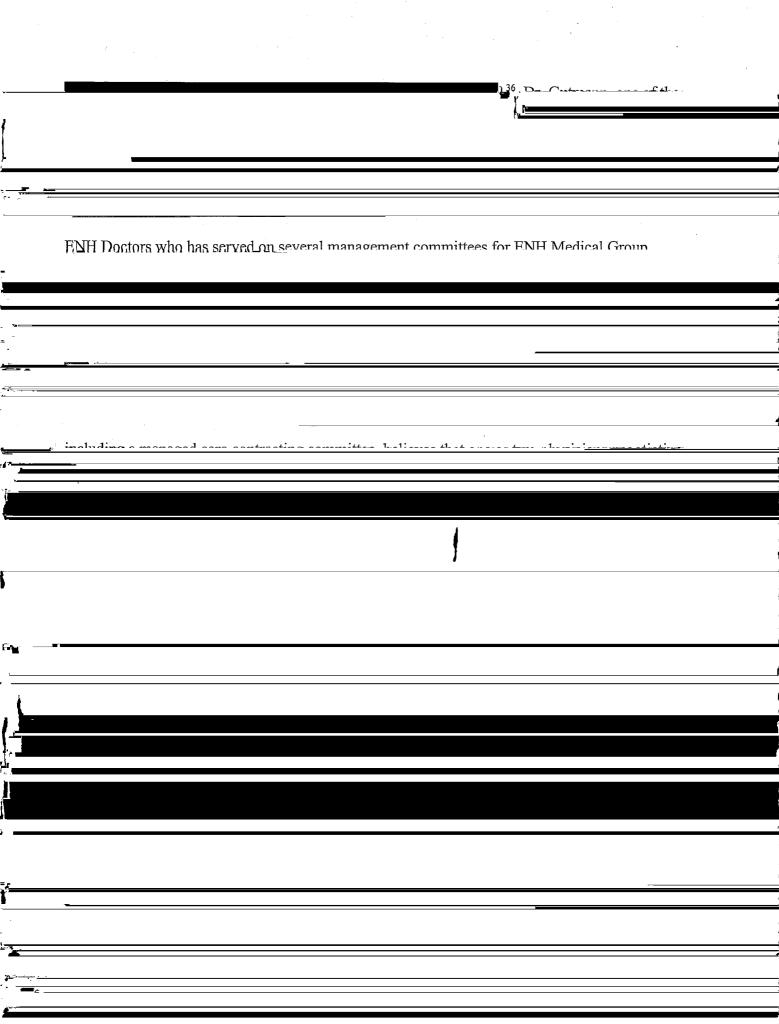

In furtherance of the scheme, the Independent Doctors from Highland Park signed standardized "To Whom It May Concern" letters in 2000.<sup>32</sup> These letters, on ENH Medical Group stationary, state that the signatory doctor terminates his or her current contract with the insurance company and will participate in the insurance company's plan pursuant to the contracts
