

The Order that Liberty seeks to modify resulted from Time Warner Inc.'s ("Time Warner") 1996 acquisition of Turner Broadcasting, Inc. ("Turner"). Respondent Tele-Communications, Inc. ("TCI"), and its then wholly-owned subsidiary, Liberty, had a minority interest in Turner. As a result of the acquisition TCI and Liberty acquired approximately a 7.5 percent ownership interest in Time Warner. The transaction raised competitive concerns relating to the integration of Time Warner's programming services and cable systems with other cable systems.¹

The Order, among other things, requires that the Liberty shares of Time Warner be nonvoting unless and until the shares are sold to an independent third party.² In addition there are further restrictions on Liberty's ability

¹ According to the Complaint, the effects of the acquisition would have been to reduce competition in the cable television programming and cable television system markets. Time Warner's control of so much of the cable programming in general, and of marquee or crown jewel programming in particular, would have enabled Time Warner to raise prices on its programming or condition access to some of its marquee programming on the purchase of unwanted programming, and would have limited the ability of cable television systems that buy such programming to take responsive action to avoid such price increases. The vertical integration of Time Warner's and TCI's cable systems with Time Warner's, Turner's and TCI's programming would also have allowed Time Warner to limit competition with its programming by denying rival programmers access to TCI's and Time Warner's cable systems, thereby preventing them from gaining access to sufficient distribution to realize economies of scale. At the same time, TCI's ownership interest in Time Warner and concurrent long-term contractual obligations to carry Turner programming would have undermined TCI's incentive to sign up better or less expensive non-Time Warner programming. changes in circumstances and shows that the changes eliminate the need for the order or make continued application of it inequitable or harmful to competition.⁵

The language of Section 5(b) plainly anticipates that the burden is on the petitioner to make a "satisfactory showing" of changed conditions to obtain reopening of the order. The legislative history also makes clear that the petitioner has the burden of showing, other than by conclusory statements, why an order should be modified. The Commission "may properly decline to reopen an order if a request is merely conclusory or otherwise fails to set forth specific facts demonstrating in detail the nature of the changed conditions and the reasons why these changed conditions require the requested modification of the order."⁶ If the Commission determines that the petitioner has made the necessary showing, the Commission must reopen the order to consider whether modification is required and, if so, the nature and extent of the modification. The Commission is not required to reopen the order, however, if the petitioner fails to meet its burden of making the satisfactory showing required by the statute. The petitioner's burden is not a light one in view of the public interest in repose and the finality of Commission orders.⁷

Where a request to reopen based on a change of fact alleges that respondent has exited the market that was subject of the order, the respondent must show both that it has in fact exited and

Specifically, in 1999, TCI merged with AT&T Corporation (“AT&T”). In 2001, Liberty was split off from AT&T to the holders of AT&T’s Liberty Media Group Tracking Stock, making Liberty a separate publicly traded company with no further relationship with the former TCI cable systems that were the focus of the Turner merger review. Liberty also asserts that it “has no current intention to acquire or to invest in any other cable television systems in the United States [including] both specific acquisitions of or investments in particular cable television systems as well as any more generalized intent to acquire or invest in any such cable television systems as a current goal or direction of Liberty’s overall business plan.”¹²

Upon consideration of Liberty’s Motion and other information, the Commission finds, pursuant to Section 2.51 of the Commission’s Rules of Practice and Procedure, 16 C.F.R. § 2.51, that changed conditions of fact warrant reopening and setting aside the Order as to Liberty. Liberty has shown that it has exited the relevant market and that it does not have the current intention of reentering that market. The Order provisions relating to Liberty were designed to ensure that Time Warner’s acquisition of Turner will not leave TCI/Liberty, or their management in a position to influence Time Warner to alter its own conduct in order to benefit TCI’s/Liberty’s, interests.¹³ Consequently, Liberty severing its ties with TCI and becoming an independent company with no ties to United States cable systems together with its intention not to reenter that market, warrants relieving Liberty from the Order’s proscriptions.

Accordingly,

IT IS ORDERED THAT this matter be, and it hereby is, reopened; and that the Commission’s Order issued on February 3, 1997, as modified on December 21, 2004, be, and it hereby is, set aside as to respondent Liberty Media Corporation as of the effective date of this Order.

By the Commission, Commissioner Kovacic recused.
