III. Casino Services in St. Louis and Lake Charles

Pinnacle's proposed acquisition of Ameristar poses substantial antitrust concerns for casino services. The casino services market consists of slot, video poker, and table gaming (i.e., gambling) along with associated amenities that are used to drive gaming revenue, which typically include some combination of hotel accommodations, food and beverages, entertainment, and other amenities. Casino operators typically generate the vast majority of their revenues from gaming.

Other forms of entertainment activities do not meaningfully compete with casino services and are not in the relevant service market. Notably, casino operators—including the merging parties—do not track other leisure activities when assessing their competitors, tracking market shares, or making business decisions. Casino services differ significantly from other entertainment activities in a number of respects. For example, casinos are highly regulated, with a limited number of casinos licensed to operate in any given state, there are age restrictions on who can gamble, and, more generally, the casino experience differs greatly from other entertainment and leisure activities. Thus, consistent with prior Commission precedent, the evidence here supports a distinct relevant market consisting of casino services.

There are two relevant geographic markets in which to analyze the merger's effects: (1) The St. Louis, Missouri metropolitan statistical area ("MSA"); and (2) the Lake Charles, Louisiana area. The conclusion that these are the relevant geographic
