Mr. Richard Strasser

Re: In the Matter of Apple Inc., File No. 1123108

Dear Mr. Strasser:

Thank you for your comment on the Federal Trade Commission's consent agreement in the above-entitled proceeding. The Commission has placed your comment on the public record pursuant to rule 4.9(b)(6)(ii) of the Commission's Rules of Practice, 16 C.F.R. § 4.9(b)(6)(ii), and has given it serious consideration.

You express concern that on an Apple TV, the code necessary to make a purchase, which serves as a parental restriction option, is visible on the TV screen for a moment before being hidden, potentially allowing children to memorize the code and make unauthorized charges. Although the proposed complaint does not contain allegations specifically addressing this issue, the Commission is committed to protecting consumers from unauthorized charges, including those incurred by children, ape-2(ng)-2(ng)-n encourages you to report any other business practices that may allow for unauthorized charges by children by contacting the FTC's Consumer Response Center at 1-877-FTC-7387, or by filing a complaint online at www.ftccomplaintassistant.gov.

The proposed complaint alleges that Apple failed to obtain account holders' informed consent to app charges incurred by children. If the Commission determines that Apple's payments total less than $32.5 million, it would remit the difference to the account holders. To ensure that consumers receive their refunds, Apple must send an electronic notice by April 15, 2014 to its account holders that clearly and conspicuously discloses the availability of refunds and instructions on how to receive such refunds.

After reviewing your letter, other public comments filed with the Commission, and the public record, the Commission has determined that the relief set forth in the proposed Decision is appropriate and sufficient to remedy the violations alleged in the proposed complaint, and is in the public interest to issue the Decision and Order in final form. The final Decision and Order and other relevant materials are available on the Commission's website at <http://www.ftc.gov/enforcement/cases-proceedings/112-3108/apple-inc>. It helps the Commission's analysis to hear from a variety of sources in its work. The Commission thanks you again for your comment.

By direction of the Commission, Commissioner Wright dissenting.
