TERRANCE MAURICE HOWARD, doing business as True

Civil Action No.

COMPLAINT FOR INJUNCTIVE AND OTHER EQUITABLE RELIEF

Plaintiff, the Federal Trade Commission ("FTC" or "Commission"), for its complaint alleges:

1. The FTC brings this action under Sections 5(a) and 13(b) of the Federal Trade Commission Act ("FTC Act"), 15 U.S.C. §§ 45(a) and 53(b), to obtain preliminary and permanent injunctive relief, rescission or reformation of contracts, restitution, disgorgement, and other equitable relief for defendant's deceptive acts or practices in violation of Section 5(a) of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. §45(a).

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

2. Subject matter jurisdiction is conferred upon this Court by 15 U.S.C. §§ 45(a) and 53(b), and 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1337(a), and 1345.

3. Venue in the Western District of Texas is proper under 15 U.S.C. § 53(b) and 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b).

PLAINTIFF

4. Plaintiff Federal Trade Commission is an independent agency of the United States Government created by statute. 15 U.S.C. §§ 41-58, as amended. The Commission enforces Section 5(a) of the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45(a), which prohibits unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce. The Commission may initiate federal district court proceedings by its own attorneys to enjoin violations of the FTC Act and to secure such equitable relief as may be appropriate in each case, including restitution for injured consumers. 15 U.S.C. § 53(b).

advertisements, defendant typically offers consumers $2000 for mailing 400 brochures, with free postage and supplies provided. The advertisements refer consumers to a toll-free telephone number for further information.

8. Upon calling the toll-free telephone number, consumers hear a recorded message asking if the consumer can find the time to stuff envelopes for $2,000 to $4,000 per week. The message states that all envelopes, stamps and materials will be provided to the consumer. Interested consumers leave their names and addresses so that defendant can send them additional information.

9. Consumers who leave their names and addresses receive a letter which claims that participants in the defendant's program could earn thousands of dollars weekly. The letter states that participants receive stamped and addressed envelopes to stuff with the business' brochures. The letter claims that participants will be paid $5 for each envelope stuffed with defendant's brochures, and that the payments are guaranteed. The defendant also includes in the letter an unconditional guarantee that everything said about the program is true and that participants will be delighted with the money they make. In the letter, the defendant claims that only his business offers an income of $1,000 or more weekly for processing only 200 letters.

10. The registration fee for the program is $35. After collecting the registration fee, contrary to defendant's representations, defendant does not provide envelope stuffing employment for consumers. Instead, defendant tells consumers to place advertisements in newspapers and on bulletin boards offering information about work-at-home opportunities in exchange for $5 and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The defendant does not pay any money to consumers for the envelopes that the consumers stuff and send out. The only money consumers make is the $5 that they receive from each individual who responds to the advertisement that consumers place about work-at-home opportunities. Thus, if the consumers receive any responses to the advertisements, they collect the $5 and send the defendant's flyer offering defendant's "Work at Home Guide."
