~~CONFIDENTIAL - ATTORNEY WORK PRODUCT - PRELIMINARY~~
 Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, 15 U.S.C. § 18a (“HSR Act” or “Act”). Thus, the United States of America, Plaintiff, by its attorneys, acting under the direction of the Attorney General of the United States and at the request of the Federal Trade Commission, brings this civil antitrust action to obtain monetary relief in the form of civil penalties against Canon and Toshiba (collectively, “Defendants”).

INTRODUCTION

2. The HSR Act is an essential part of modern antitrust enforcement. It requires the buyer and the seller of voting securities or assets in excess of a certain value to notify the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission prior to consummating the acquisition, and to observe a waiting period after the notification is filed. Advance notification of significant transactions, and adherence to the waiting period, are the essential elements of the Act, providing the federal antitrust agencies with an opportunity to investigate and, when necessary, to seek an injunction to prevent the consummation of anticompetitive acquisitions.

3. In 2015, Toshiba had put itself into a precarious financial position. In July 2015, ~~an independent investigation (triggered by an earlier investigation by financial regulators)~~ restate its earnings for several years, and to incur a significant accounting charge for fiscal year 2015. To shore up its financial statement, Toshiba decided to sell TMSC, a company that does substantial business in the United States.

4. In December 2015, Toshiba began the process of selling TMSC. Canon was one of the interested bidders. Toshiba’s desire to sell TMSC had a deadline: Toshiba needed to recognize the proceeds from the sale before the end of its fiscal year on March 31, 2016. Yet faced a time frame that would make it difficult, if not impossible, to file premerger notifications and receive the necessary premerger clearances in several jurisdictions, including the United to acquire TMSC, allow Toshiba to recognize the proceeds from the sale by the close of its fiscal year, and avoid filing the notification and observing the waiting period required by the HSR Act.

[REDACTED]

Toshiba and Canon used to evade the premerger-notification law.

6. During March 15-17, 2016, in a multi-step process, Toshiba transferred ownership of TMSC to Canon, but in a way designed to evade notification requirements. First, Toshiba rearranged the corporate ownership structure of TMSC to make the scheme possible: it non-voting share and the newly-created options in exchange for $6.1 billion, and at the same time transferred the voting shares of TMSC (a $6.1 billion company) to MS Holding in exchange options and obtained formal control of TMSC's voting shares.

$6.1 billion, it would have required filing notification and observing the 30-day HSR waiting period, which Toshiba feared it could not accomplish by March 31, 2016. Instead, MS Holding paid only nine hundred dollars for the voting shares in TMSC, a company valued by Canon at $6.1 billion, while Canon nominally acquired only a non-voting share and options. Canon and Toshiba structured the transaction in such a way that, if these transactions were not part of a interests in TMSC, while nominal voting-share ownership was divested by Toshiba and passed to MS Holding, true beneficial ownership passed to Canon. MS Holding bore no risk of loss, and no meaningful benefit of gain, for any decrease or increase in TMSC's value. Rather, it was Canon which bore that risk or would realize any potential gain from TMSC's operations. MS Holding merely served to temporarily hold TMSC voting securities for Canon's benefit. Therefore, Canon became the owner of TMSC in March 2016 when it paid Toshiba the $6.1

laws of Japan, with its principal office and place of business at 6-10-1 Roppongi, Minato-ku, Tokyo, Japan. Defendants Canon and Toshiba directed their law firms to have MS Holding created for the specific purpose of acquiring and holding certain of TMSC's shares pending antitrust clearance for Canon's proposed acquisition of TMSC.

17. Canon U.S.A., Inc. is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Canon with its headquarters in Melville, New York. Canon U.S.A., Inc. conducts sales and marketing of Canon products in the Americas, including the District of Columbia. Canon U.S.A., Inc. participated in the transaction at issue by receiving from Toshiba a minority share of the options to acquire TMSC voting securities, which were used as part of the scheme to transfer TMSC to Canon, and committing to pay Toshiba for such options.

BACKGROUND

A. The Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act and Rules

18. The HSR Act requires certain acquiring persons and certain persons whose voting securities or assets are acquired both to file notifications with the federal antitrust agencies and to observe a waiting period before consummating certain acquisitions. See 15 U.S.C. § 18a(a). The ~~HSR Act requires certain acquiring persons and certain persons whose voting securities or assets are acquired both to file notifications with the federal antitrust agencies and to observe a waiting period before consummating certain acquisitions. See 15 U.S.C. § 18a(a). The~~ Columbia offices of each agency. These notification and waiting period requirements apply to acquisitions that meet the HSR Act's dollar value thresholds, which are adjusted annually. At all times relevant to this complaint, the HSR Act's notification and waiting period requirements ~~applied to acquisitions of securities or assets of a company that had at least $200 million of sales in or into the United States.~~ million of sales in or into the United States. TMSC made at least $200 million of sales in or into the United States during its 2015 fiscal year.

20. Parties may not structure transactions for the purpose of avoiding the HSR Act. Section 801.90 of the HSR Rules, 16 C.F.R. § 801.90, provides that “[a]ny transaction(s) or other device(s) entered into or employed for the purpose of avoiding the obligation to comply with the requirements of the act shall be disregarded, and the obligation to comply shall be determined by

21. Section 801.2(a) of the HSR Rules, 16 C.F.R. § 801.2(a), defines an acquiring person: “Any person which, as a result of an acquisition, will hold voting securities or assets, either directly or indirectly, or through fiduciaries, agents, or other entities acting on behalf of such person, is an acquiring person.”

Section 801.1(c) of the HSR Rules, 16 C.F.R. § 801.1(c), provides that one holds voting securities if she has beneficial ownership: “the term hold (as used in the terms hold(s), of beneficial ownership is to be determined in the context of particular cases with reference to purpose of avoiding” the HSR Act’s requirements, then determining whether an HSR notification should have been filed, and by whom, is based on an analysis of the “substance of the transaction,” as opposed to the form of the avoidance scheme; and (b) in carrying out this notification analysis (including identifying the applicable provisions (with the exception of HSR Act Section 801, which relates to waiting period obligations) involves an assessment of who, upon completion of the transaction, “enjoy[ed] the indicia of beneficial ownership.”

B. Canon and Toshiba’s HSR Avoidance Scheme

24. ~~In late February 2016, Toshiba and Canon entered into negotiations with TMSC.~~ TMSC. Rather than complete their negotiations in time to allow compliance with regulatory requirements, the firms decided instead to devise a way to allow Toshiba to recognize the profits ~~from its sale of TMSC by its financial year end on March 31, 2016 without complying with HSR~~ requirements. Toshiba and Canon jointly decided to restructure TMSC’s securities and to sell TMSC to Canon through the device of MS Holding, a newly-formed special purpose vehicle which they had created specifically for this transaction. This scheme allowed Toshiba to ~~recognize the profits from its sale of TMSC by its financial year end on March 31, 2016 without complying with HSR~~ requirements. ~~Toshiba and Canon jointly decided to restructure TMSC’s securities and to sell TMSC to Canon through the device of MS Holding, a newly-formed special purpose vehicle which they had created specifically for this transaction. This scheme allowed Toshiba to~~ ~~recognize the profits from its sale of TMSC by its financial year end on March 31, 2016 and delayed Canon’s filing of premerger notification for its acquisition~~ of TMSC.

25. By early March 2016, Toshiba and Canon agreed to the following transaction structure, which they ultimately executed:

- a. Toshiba and Canon directed their law firms to have a third law firm form MS Holding, a special purpose vehicle created solely to hold temporarily the voting ~~shares of TMSC pending antitrust clearance of Canon’s acquisition of TMSC.~~

b. Toshiba revised the corporate ownership structure of TMSC (its wholly-

1) 20 Class A voting shares of TMSC;

2) 1 Class B non-voting share of TMSC; and

3) 100 options to acquire 134,980,000 TMSC “ordinary shares” (which remained unissued until step “e” below);

c. MS Holding paid Toshiba approximately nine hundred dollars for the 20 Class A voting shares. MS Holding thus nominally gained temporary ownership of a options. The “ordinary shares” remained unissued until Canon and Canon U.S.A. exercised their options; and

e. Later, after HSR notification had been made and the waiting period had passed, Canon and Canon U.S.A., Inc., exercised their options (for a total exercise price of about one dollar) and so acquired the 134,980,000 TMSC “ordinary shares”;

f. After Canon and Canon U.S.A., Inc., exercised their options, TMSC bought out MS Holding’s 20 Class A shares at a fixed price that did not vary depending on the financial performance of TMSC during the period MS Holding held the Class A shares.

26. While the motive of selling TMSC was to shore up Toshiba's financial statement, the purpose of the unusual transaction structure selected by Canon and Toshiba was to avoid the HSR Act's waiting period and complete the sale of TMSC prior to March 31, 2016. By their own admission, Canon and Toshiba believed that Canon could not acquire TMSC outright because "it simply was not possible to complete a significant acquisition of TMSC voting securities before the end of Toshiba's fiscal year due to the review periods under various merger control laws."

implemented their scheme for the sale of TMSC as follows:

a. On March 5, 2016, Toshiba and Canon jointly approached TMI Associates ("TMI"), a Japanese law firm, to consult on the formation of the special purpose vehicle (which became MS Holding upon its creation).

b. On March 6, 2016, Toshiba and Canon met with TMI regarding the formation of the special purpose vehicle (which became MS Holding) to consist of three principals/shareholders: a business leader, an attorney, and an accountant;

134,980,000 “ordinary” shares, and 100 options to acquire the 134,980,000 “ordinary” shares, and 100 options to acquire the 134,980,000 “ordinary” shares. resulted in TMSC holding 134,980,060 of its own Class C shares, and 134,980,000 of its own “ordinary” shares, while Toshiba held 20 Class A shares, the single Class B non-voting share, and 100 options to acquire the 134,980,000 “ordinary” shares.

j. On March 17, 2016, Toshiba and Canon executed the agreement (“acquisition agreement”) pursuant to which Canon and Canon U.S.A., Inc., agreed to pay Toshiba approximately $6.1 billion to acquire TMSC’s single Class B non-voting billion was non-refundable, even if Canon and Canon U.S.A., Inc.’s exercise of the TMSC options was later blocked as a result of antitrust review;

k. On the same day, March 17, 2016, Toshiba and MS Holding executed an agreement whereby MS Holding acquired the 20 Class A voting shares for approximately agreement between Toshiba and MS Holding;

l. On or about December 19, 2016, after obtaining the necessary antitrust clearances, Canon exercised its options to acquire the “ordinary” shares; and

m. On or about December 21, 2016, TMSC acquired the 20 Class A shares from MS Holding, and MS Holding had no further ownership interest in or involvement with TMSC.

29. As of March 17, 2016, Toshiba no longer had any interest in, ownership rights in, or control over TMSC. Canon and Canon U.S.A., Inc.’s payment of $6.1 billion and MS

Holding's payment of nine hundred dollars was all the proceeds it would receive for its interests

TMSC a Canon subsidiary.”

30. The true substance of the transactions described in Paragraph 28 was Canon's

31. At all times relevant to this complaint, MS Holding was not an entity independent of Canon. Canon exercised direction and control over MS Holding during its formation. Canon caused the creation of MS Holding; it participated in the selection of the principals of MS Holding; it briefed the proposed principals of MS Holding about the transaction; it participated in the drafting of the formation documents of MS Holding; it commented on the appropriateness of the name MS Holding; it reviewed, commented on, and approved the share transaction

MS Holding.

32. MS Holding had no meaningful risk of loss or benefit of gain in connection with its ownership of the Class A shares. It was to be paid a fixed amount that did not go up or down depending on the financial performance of TMSC.

33. MS Holding did not act as an independent owner of TMSC during the period it nominally controlled TMSC through its ownership of the Class A shares. Because it existed at a fixed price, MS Holding had no incentive to maintain the long term viability of TMSC.

Accordingly, if MS Holding had been a truly independent owner of TMSC, its economic self-interest would have been to take as much of the proceeds out of TMSC as it could prior to Canon exercising the options for the “ordinary” shares. Despite this economic self-interest, MS Holding made no efforts to sell any of TMSC’s assets and declared dividends that amounted to only a small fraction of the profits earned by TMSC during the period of its nominal control.

34. Neither the Defendants nor the principals of MS Holding expected MS Holding to be involved in the operation of TMSC during the period that MS Holding nominally controlled the Class A shares. Indeed, Canon itself has admitted that “TMSC’s management board ran TMSC’s day-to-day business during the time MS Holding” controlled the Class A shares. This was consistent with Defendants’ choice of a corporate form for MS Holding, as “under Japanese law for the type of stock company in which MS Holding was formed, TMSC’s shareholders are

37. Defendants did not comply with the notification and waiting period requirements of the HSR Act and regulations. Although Defendant Canon and MS Holding both filed HSR Act notifications on April 26, 2016 for the exercise of the options to acquire the TMSC “ordinary” shares, these filings were not timely or effective because the transfer of beneficial

38. On July 22, 2016, Canon and Toshiba each amended, under protest, the original sale of TMSC. The waiting period on the amended filings expired on August 22, 2016.

39. The Defendants were each in violation of the HSR Act each day during the period beginning on March 17, 2016, and ending on August 22, 2016.

40. Section 7A(e)(1) of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 18a(e)(1) provides that any

REQUEST FOR RELIEF

Wherefore, the Plaintiff requests:

1. That the Court find and deem that Defendants violated the HSR Act, 15 U.S.C. § 18a and that Defendants were in violation of the Act on each day of the period from March 17, 2016, through August 22, 2016;
