

we wanted to ensure that we were worki diminish the innovation competition that fuels scientific progress. When multiple companies are racing to develop new technology, that innovation race in and of itself produces tangible benefits that may be at risk from a merger. The EC's challenge to Dow/DuPont recognized this loss of R&D, specifically

